The dynamic residential steel Framing industry presents both challenges and opportunities. Although the benefits of steel framing are well known, the plan-to-permit cycle of working with steel has been inefficient and slow until now.

Introducing The Somundy Century Systems of steel construction the first system to integrate the design, engineering and fabrication of steel framework with top quality steel components. This advanced system dramatically decreases the redundancies experienced with other stand-alone design Systems, and takes advantage of our steel products and components to give you maximum efficiency.
